MONSIEUR AND MADAME PAUL

"She's a splendid voman! a splendid voman. Shudge!" said a dark-eyed little Frenchman to the Court, yesterday. "Mais she trink! oh! she trink so mooch! Eef she don't trink she is saved body and "I do not drink to excess, Your Honor!" said the sickly, harassed looking little creature who suswered to the name of Mrs. Paul. "But my husband here drives me to desperation by calling me terrible names and cursing me into the lowest depths. Then I go and take a glass of beer in spite and misery. I'm not a drunkard, Judge!"

"Oh, oh!" said the elderly Gaelic friend of M. Paul

"Oh, oh!" said the elderly Gaelic friend of M. Paul, rolling her glittering black orbs toward the yellow spot in the court ceiling. "Her house vill tell. She ces lost—lost! Mais suppose she shall reform, she see saved! Mon Dieu, saved!"

"Do you curse and call your wife names, Mr. Paul?" said Judge Morgan.

"I do when she drinks beer," replied the husband; "but she's a beast and not fit to be a man's wife."

At this point a venerable looking old man, elegantly dressed, with long white beard and hair, came upon the stand and said:—"Judge, I am this young woman's father, and I fear that they will drive her to despair and ruin between them if something is not done to prevent it. This man here is not fit to have a wife, He is a malicious little brute, and now I don't want to trust my child to him any longer. I'll take her and her baby hame and keep them as long as I live, and (with a quaver of tenderness in his voice) I will not drive her to drink nor will I curse and abuse her."

"Will you go home to your father, Mrs. Paul?" said the Judge.

"I will, I will, sir," replied the poor little cowed creature.

"Then take her with you sir," added the Judge.

oreature.
"Then take her with you, sir," added the Judge, and, with her hand resting confidingly on the arm of her parent, she left the Jefferson Market Police Court.

THE BURIAL OF WILKERSON.

Mr. Francis McConnell, undertaker, of No. 723 Tenth avenue, who, it was stated, in the report of the burial of William Wilkerson, of No. 774 Tenth avenue, had retained the body longer than was necessary in his possession, and had removed the remains from the casket, claims that such a report is incorrect. He states that on his return home three days before the funeral Wilkerson's relatives called upon him and he accompanied them to the Coroner to secure a permit for the removal of the remains from the Morgue. On the following day he secured the permit, took the remains to No. 774 Tenth avetook the remains to No. 774 Tenth avenue, put them on ice, and securing an order from the family for the casket, arranged the funeral for the following day at two P. M. Owing to the difficulties experienced by the relatives in getting a grave in their plot in Greenwood opened and their refusal to pay him his bill, although he learned that the daughter had a bank account, Mr. McConnell says he refused to surrender the papers and presented his bill for the full amount. He was summoned before the Clerk of the Board of Coroners, who, on hearing his explanations, ordered the consin of deceased and another undertaker she had called in to reimburse him for the services he had rendered. This they deflined to do. He then surrendered the papers to the clerk on a promise that they would pay him $18. He asserts that the casket was not removed from his office to the house of the family.

CHARLES E. JOHNSON.

The authorities of the Kings County District Attor-ney's office denied, yesterday, that they had any knowledge of the reported discharge of Charles E. Johnson from the Bloomingdale Insane Asylum.

Johnson is the young man who, in December last, shot and wounded his wife, Florence, at her father's residence, on Monroe place, Brooklyn. He was subsequently declared insane and was sent to the mad house. The case attracted considerable attention at the time, owing to the social standing of the parties. The relatives of the lady decline to speak on the subject.

THE FAILURE OF DODD, BROWN & CO .- REPOR OF THE COMMITTEE OF CREDITORS-A SETTLE MENT AT FIFTY-TWO AND A HALF CENTS AC-

The adjourned meeting of the creditors of Dodd Brown & Co., wholesale dealers in dry goods at St. Louis, was held yesterday at the New York office of the firm, No. 71 Thomas street. Colonel William L. Strong presided, and Mr. John Byers acted as secre-tary, there being over two hundred merchants pres-ent. After the meeting had been called to order Mr. ent. After the meeting had been called to order Mr. Byers was called upon to read the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to make an investigation and report a basis for a settlement. The committee represent claims to the amount of over 3385,000 out of a total merchandise indebtedness of $1,040,000. The committee reported that the assets of the firm had been carefully appraised as follows:—The real estate, a majority of which is in St. Louis, was appraised by Messrs, J. E. Kaime and Charles H. Bailey, of that city; an inventory of the stock was taken on the basis of present Western value and submitted to Mr. John T. Davis, of Samuel C. Davis & Co., and Mr. Hugh McKittrick, of Crow, Hargadine & Co. These gentlemen think the stock might be made to realize eighty-five cents on the dollar. The valuation of the notes and accounts receivable, including those pledged and under discount, was made as follows:—Four different lists embracing the names and residences of the debtors, with the amount of their debts respectively, were prepared and placed in the hands of Mr. W. A. Hargadine, Mr. William Medart, the manager of the credits of Chase & Cabot; Mr. John B. Maude, of the wholesale boot and shoe house of Appleton, Noyes & Maude, and Mr. George Scott, the credit manager of Dodd, Brown & Co., to be classified into "good," "doubtful." "bad" and "unknown." This work was carefully performed, and shows the estimate of each appraiser upon every one of the 3,000 debtors contained in the schedules. An average valuation has been adopted in all cases except where the debtor was marked by the outside appraisers as "unknown," in which case the appraisal of Dodd, Brown & Co. has been taken. The report of the committee closed by recommending a settlement with Dodd, Brown & Co. has been taken. The report of the committee the appraisal of Dodd, Brown & Co. has been taken. The report of the committee the after the inine months, and the last two notes to be satisfactorily indorsed. Accounts to be made up as cash Decemb Byers was called upon to read the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to make an

BEER AND BLOOD.

William Armstrong, whose face was hidden by an crustation of gore, was brought up at Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday morning, accused, with Frank Williams, an athletic young fellow, of having attempted to break up Mr. Shamburger's saloon, in Bleecker street, on the previous night.

"Dem fellers came into dot salcon," said the witness for the prosecution, Mr. Abraham Seelig, who insisted on his Eastern prerogative of being aworn with his hat on, "und I vas sitting mit mein freund ouf vun of dem tables. Dem two fellers had two gells mit dem und dey vas shuts passing myselef von I say to mein freund, 'I don't tink maype dot de poleeces vill ketch Steevart's body pooty quviek. Don't it?" 'You son am a gun, 'said dot man Omstrong, 'youm speaking aboud me. I smash you of dot ear, oud right avay. Den Mr. Shamburger he got madness off dem fellers, und he say, 'I tink dot vas besser dot you pay for your drinks und goin' oud right avay. Dot shentleman, Mr. Seeling' (dots me, Shudge), 'don't say nodings boud you. Pay und git!' Vell, Shudge, you don't can see such an awful row in my life as dem loafers make right avay. Dem vant smash eferyting, und call us bad names und slouk Mr. Shamburger off de kopf, und den Mr. Shamburger he get a clup und amash dot feller mit der bluid on his faee und kneck him right avay oud. Den dot audra feller he pick up a lager pler keg und break dot vindow oud, und I whistle for ein officer und der vas a hell of a time, I bet you. I'm an old man, und I can't make poety good fight, und I'm 'fraid von dem loafers. Den dot officer come und 'rost dem und den I vos glad!"

The prisoners could not deny that they were the assailants, and as they were known to the police unfavorably were each fined $10, held in $300 ball to keep the peace or to stand committed one month. "Dem fellers came into dot saloon," said the witr
